GRANT AND NICOLL HAPPY.

How the Successful Candidates Took the News of Their Victory.

District Attorney De Lancy Nicoll remained at his home, No. 114 East Twenty-seventh street, last night, and received the return from the various districts over a private wire which was run to his home.
He was very busy, but wore a cheerful smile when the World reporter asked what he thought of the result of the election.

"The election," said he, "of the Democratic ticket when taken as a whole, in connection with the Democratic victories in other parts of the country, expresses a resurgence of feeling against the Republican party which it is difficult to pass the force of. In this city, the vote of the people against Platt and Grace for their betrayal of its interests in the matter of the World's Fair, was overwhelming."

"What do you think of the new ballot system?" asked the reporter.

"It allows us to have worked well," said Mr.
Nicoll, "and I am glad to see that it has had a wonderful intelligence in adapting themselves to its requirements."

"Did you at any time doubt as to your election?"

"I knew," he replied, "that the people would go through the combination between Platt and Grace, and I expected the return from the various districts over a private wire which was run to his home.
He was very busy, but wore a cheerful smile
when the World reporter asked what he thought of the result of the election.

"Many friends called during the evening to congratulate Mr. Nicoll on his election, not a few names among the number.

When some one asked him if he had slept well last night, he said: "Yes, I did." Mayor Grant looked like a man who had nothing whatsoever to trouble him. He looked as though he had just come and kept busy receiving the congratulations of his friends.

When asked what he had to say in regard to his election he said: "All that I can say is that the people of New York have given this city for their earnest support during the present campaign, and I will do my best to live up to their expectations during the ensuing two years, and endeavor to make the office to the entire satisfaction of the community."
